as she shares her experiences in a post-show seminar with cast and crew on how to bring a "Silent Retreat" from page to stage!

(April 14, 2023, Invisible Theatre); The Invisible Theatre concludes its landmark and acclaimed 51st Season with SMALL MOUTH SOUNDS by Bess Wohl April 19 - 30, 2023. In this compassionate and witty play, six wildly dissimilar runaways from city life embark on a week-long silent retreat, in the overwhelming quiet of the woods. These strangers attempt to abandon technology, observe a vow of silence, and tamp down their natural cravings while being guided by an unseen guru who challenges them to confront internal demons and seek peace. Filled with insightful humor, SMALL MOUTH SOUNDS, directed by Susan Claassen and starring Susan Cookie Baker, David Gunther, Dennis Tamblyn, Steve McKee, Lori Hunt, Abigail Dunscomb and ToReeNee Wolf, is a cleverly conceived and sharp observation of the pursuit of wellness and the achingly human, and often frustrating, need to connect. How do we address life's biggest questions when words fail us?

Tucson author SUSAN CUMMINS MILLER, a former field geologist, vertebrate paleontologist, and college instructor, is the author of two poetry collections: Making Silent Stones Sing and Deciphering the Desert; six Frankie MacFarlane, Geologist, mysteries; and a nonfiction anthology, A Sweet, Separate Intimacy: Women Writers of the American Frontier, 1800-1922. Miller's poems, short stories and essays appear frequently in journals and anthologies, including the recently released Trouble in Tucson. Much of her work was conceived and created during silent retreats. Susan's website is www.susancumminsmiller.com
